Many Friends Rally To Aid of Family To Avoid Deportation

75 People Gather in Cornwells Methodist Church To Offer Help

By Staff Reporter

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, May 21—Problems galore face the family of Frank Homalka in this, the free land of their choice. But with the problems which have made the last several weeks exceptionally dark has come the knowledge that there are countless friends who stand ready to aid them in their fight to escape deportation.

This was further attested at a meeting in Cornwells Methodist Church last evening, attended by more than 75 people—all ready to sign affidavits attesting to Homalka's character, his industry, his neighborliness, and the fact that he is a fine candidate for citizenship.

The Homalka family—consisting of Frank, his wife Olga; and their four children, Adolph, 12, Freda, 8, Helga, about 6, and Frank, 1½ years—not only faces deportation, but separation, for Frank, the baby, was born in this country, and is therefore a citizen. The six live on Woodbine avenue, Eddington.

"What happens to the baby if this family is deported?" is the question posed by the Rev. Alfred C. Reinert, pastor of Cornwells Methodist Church, who is helping lead the fight for the sextet to remain in America.

A hearing was scheduled for one o'clock this afternoon in the Lafayette building, Phila., the hearing being scheduled to give Mrs. Ho-

Barbecue Enthusiasts Favored by Ordinance

TULLYTOWN, May 21 — Levittown residents and other barbecue enthusiasts of this borough were assured the right to have back-yard "doggie roasts," last night when Borough Council approved an amended version of a proposed fire-safety ordinance. The ordinance, after examination by Borough Solicitor William Conca, Esq., will be returned to Council for final approval.

A number of Levittowners attending the meeting expressed concern that the ordinance's ban on night fires might outlaw use of a barbecue pit in their yards in the evening. Council inserted a clause permitting such fires if kept small, properly attended, and made in fireproof enclosures or fire places.

Otherwise, the ordinance bans fires in the borough during the night-time period starting one-half hour after sunset and ending a half hour before sunrise the following morning. Council has also prepared a borough health ordinance, which is expected to be read at the next regular meeting.

King Calls Agriculture Plan "Phony Give-Away"

The agricultural conservation program was branded today as a "phony give-away program" by Karl King (R-Pa.), in an attempt to cut the appropriation in the House of Representatives. This afternoon he charged that "at least $100 million provided in this bill will go to farmers for doing what any sensible farmer would do for himself in producing the current year's crop and not one dime of this $100 million will conserve any soil for the next generation if the farmer wishes to stick it in his pocket."

Congressman King attempted, by amendment, to reduce the provision of $195 million for the 1954 program to $140 million, the amount requested by Secretary of Agriculture Benson during his appearance before the agriculture subcommittee headed by Carl Anderson of Minnesota.

"Our soil resources for the future are depleted mainly by use in the production of crops, so it should be apparent to both taxpayers and consumers that constant production of foodstuffs in excess of demand is the most wasteful dissipation of our future soil resources. Any program which subsidizes surplus production wastes our soil resources and, even worse than that, the excess production forces our government

A change in the time of the start of the parade in Bristol for Greater Lower Bucks County Week from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. Saturday, June 3 was announced at a meeting of parade committee heads at the Elks home, Radcliffe street, last night.

Changing the start of the parade to 4 p. m. was made following a request by Chief of Police Linford J. Jones. It was reported at the meeting that Chief Jones suggested a later parade start would allow borough police to clear the streets of traffic. Some manufacturing plants working a six-day week here change shifts at 3 p. m. and traffic is heavy until these workers have left for home.

The committees last night felt too that the 4 o'clock start for the parade would allow the crowds expected to watch the regatta on the Delaware to make their way to the

Many Friends Rally To Aid of Family To Avoid Deportation

75 People Gather in Cornwells Methodist Church To Offer Help

By Staff Reporter

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, May 21—Problems galore face the family of Frank Homalka in this, the free land of their choice. But with the problems which have made the last several weeks exceptionally dark has come the knowledge that there are countless friends who stand ready to aid them in their fight to escape deportation.

This was further attested at a meeting in Cornwells Methodist Church last evening, attended by more than 75 people—all ready to sign affidavits attesting to Homalka's character, his industry, his neighborliness, and the fact that he is a fine candidate for citizenship.

The Homalka family—consisting of Frank, his wife Olga; and their four children, Adolph, 12, Freda, 8, Helga, about 6, and Frank, 1½ years—not only faces deportation, but separation, for Frank, the baby, was born in this country, and is therefore a citizen. The six live on Woodbine avenue, Eddington.

"What happens to the baby if this family is deported?" is the question posed by the Rev. Alfred C. Reinert, pastor of Cornwells Methodist Church, who is helping lead the fight for the sextet to remain in America.

A hearing was scheduled for one o'clock this afternoon in the Lafayette building, Phila., the hearing being scheduled to give Mrs. Ho-

Bristol Twp. Also Posts "No Swimming" at Lake

Board Follows Action Taken by Bristol Burgess on Wednesday

"No bathing" signs will be erected on the Bristol twp. shores of Silver Lake, George Sottung, president of the township Board of Commissioners, said today.

The signs were ordered after Dr. Samuel Katz, secretary of Bristol twp. Board of Health, said the lake is contaminated. Yesterday the Bristol borough section of Silver Lake was ordered posted by Burgess I. Johnston Hetherington, Sr.

Bristol Blood Donors, who in past years have provided life guards at the lake, said they will discontinue the service this season because of the closing of the swimming area. The Donors said, however, that they are searching for an alternate swimming site for the Bristol area. They asked the public to suggest swimming places to them.

The disposition of money collected in the donors recent life guard fund drive has not been decided upon by the group.

The zoning board rejected the Authority's appeal after holding two conferences thus allowing Levitt to go ahead with construction on the tower.

Barbecue Enthusiasts Favored by Ordinance

TULLYTOWN, May 21 — Levittown residents and other barbecue enthusiasts of this borough were assured the right to have back-yard "doggie roasts," last night when Borough Council approved an amended version of a proposed fire-safety ordinance. The ordinance, after examination by Borough Solicitor William Conca, Esq., will be returned to Council for final approval.

A number of Levittowners attending the meeting expressed concern that the ordinance's ban on night fires might outlaw use of a barbecue pit in their yards in the evening. Council inserted a clause permitting such fires if kept small, properly attended, and made in fireproof enclosures or fire places.

Otherwise, the ordinance bans fires in the borough during the night-time period starting one-half hour after sunset and ending a half hour before sunrise the following morning. Council has also prepared a borough health ordinance, which is expected to be read at the next regular meeting.

King Calls Agriculture Plan "Phony Give-Away"

The agricultural conservation program was branded today as a "phony give-away program" by Karl King (R-Pa.), in an attempt to cut the appropriation in the House of Representatives. This afternoon he charged that "at least $100 million provided in this bill will go to farmers for doing what any sensible farmer would do for himself in producing the current year's crop and not one dime of this $100 million will conserve any soil for the next generation if the farmer wishes to stick it in his pocket."

Congressman King attempted, by amendment, to reduce the provision of $195 million for the 1954 program to $140 million, the amount requested by Secretary of Agriculture Benson during his appearance before the agriculture subcommittee headed by Carl Anderson of Minnesota.

"Our soil resources for the future are depleted mainly by use in the production of crops, so it should be apparent to both taxpayers and consumers that constant production of foodstuffs in excess of demand is the most wasteful dissipation of our future soil resources. Any program which subsidizes surplus production wastes our soil resources and, even worse than that, the excess production forces our government

MENACE OF 'TWISTERS'

This has started out to be a bad year for tornadoes. Already scores of areas in and near the Mississippi basin have been raked by "twisters", with a loss of life totaling more than 100 and property damage approaching $50,000,000. This is the usual time and place for them.

Though tornadoes can occur in virtually every state, the vast majority occur around the Mississippi basin during the months of April to July.

A tornado is the most violent storm there is, with a near vacuum at its center and winds spinning at hundreds of miles an hour. If tornadoes lasted longer and covered a wide enough area, they would be much worse than hurricanes. But a hurricane may be hundreds of miles in diameter and last for days, taking hours to pass a given point, and traveling thousands of miles (much of the distance over water) before breaking up.

A tornado will pass a given point in a minute and last an hour at most. The length of its path may range from a few hundred yards to 40 or 50 miles.

What causes tornadoes? Meteorologists have been patiently gathering data, but they do not know all the answers. A tornado has something in common with a thunderstorm, which it may precede. Either or both may occur at the frontier where an advancing cold front overrides a warm air mass. If on this frontier there is a "jet stream" of accelerated winds, the kind of instability which breeds tornadoes may be present.

Some deaths and injuries have been prevented by a tornado forecasting service set up in the Midwest in 1952, aided by a small network of Weather Bureau, Army and private radar stations. But warnings do little to prevent damage to property.

SAVED BY TRAINING

When a tornado struck San Angelo, Tex., with great property damage and scores were killed or injured, 700 pupils of the Lakeview combined high and grade school escaped without a scratch, although damage to the building was estimated at $500,000.

Teachers and officials give credit for this remarkable circumstance to the excellent training pupils had received in fire and disaster drills. They had been taught what to do in case of an emergency and they did it.

Safety lessons instilled into school children are a worthy part of the curriculum. When children are taught at a formative age what to do in case of emergency, they are not likely to forget the lessons when they are grown men and women.

Driver training courses now being taught in some high schools may have incalculable results in later years.

One day it was a black rabbit; another day it was a pink rabbit that came to Mrs. Morris' first grade. That was only the beginning—for if you were to drop into that first grade at Cornwells, you might think you were visiting a pet shop. The boys and girls have been learning all about pets; and what better way to learn than to have the animals brought to school? It has been easy for the children to learn the correct way of handling various animals, proper feeding, and the general care of pets.

Besides having the rabbit pets in the room, the class has had turtles, goldfish and kittens. The biggest surprise came when Bobby Masters brought his pet hen to school. She made herself right at home and presented the class with a nice fresh egg!

MENACE OF 'TWISTERS'

This has started out to be a bad year for tornadoes. Already scores of areas in and near the Mississippi basin have been raked by "twisters", with a loss of life totaling more than 100 and property damage approaching $50,000,000. This is the usual time and place for them.

Though tornadoes can occur in virtually every state, the vast majority occur around the Mississippi basin during the months of April to July.

A tornado is the most violent storm there is, with a near vacuum at its center and winds spinning at hundreds of miles an hour. If tornadoes lasted longer and covered a wide enough area, they would be much worse than hurricanes. But a hurricane may be hundreds of miles in diameter and last for days, taking hours to pass a given point, and traveling thousands of miles (much of the distance over water) before breaking up.

A tornado will pass a given point in a minute and last an hour at most. The length of its path may range from a few hundred yards to 40 or 50 miles.

What causes tornadoes? Meteorologists have been patiently gathering data, but they do not know all the answers. A tornado has something in common with a thunderstorm, which it may precede. Either or both may occur at the frontier where an advancing cold front overrides a warm air mass. If on this frontier there is a "jet stream" of accelerated winds, the kind of instability which breeds tornadoes may be present.

Some deaths and injuries have been prevented by a tornado forecasting service set up in the Midwest in 1952, aided by a small network of Weather Bureau, Army and private radar stations. But warnings do little to prevent damage to property.

SAVED BY TRAINING

When a tornado struck San Angelo, Tex., with great property damage and scores were killed or injured, 700 pupils of the Lakeview combined high and grade school escaped without a scratch, although damage to the building was estimated at $500,000.

Teachers and officials give credit for this remarkable circumstance to the excellent training pupils had received in fire and disaster drills. They had been taught what to do in case of an emergency and they did it.

Safety lessons instilled into school children are a worthy part of the curriculum. When children are taught at a formative age what to do in case of emergency, they are not likely to forget the lessons when they are grown men and women.

Driver training courses now being taught in some high schools may have incalculable results in later years.

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA---

All public, private and parochial schools in the Bristol area are invited to send news items for publication in this column which appears frequently.

Bensalem Township

One day it was a black rabbit; another day it was a pink rabbit that came to Mrs. Morris' first grade. That was only the beginning —for if you were to drop into that first grade at Cornwells, you might think you were visiting a pet shop. The boys and girls have been learning all about pets; and what better way to learn than to have the animals brought to school? It has been easy for the children to learn the correct way of handling various animals, proper feeding, and the general care of pets.

Besides having the rabbit pets in the room, the class has had turtles, goldfish and kittens. The biggest surprise came when Bobby Masters brought his pet hen to school. She made herself right at home and presented the class with a nice fresh egg!

For auditor: Patrick Brennan, Levittown, 76. Other: Edward Termyna, 35.

For judge of elections: Mary Cucknell, Levittown, 96.

For inspector of elections: Mary Lovett, 116.

Elsewhere in the county results that took place included the following:

In Yardley James R. Stewart polled 179 votes to walk away with the Republican nomination for Burgess. He defeated Nelson Whitehead, who tallied 115 votes.

Borough Council race: Myles Furey with 226, and Alfred Skelton, 218, both incumbents, led. Others who won nominations were Henry O'Brien, 214, and Charles Shaw, 200. Lewis Babbitt and Paul Comley French were defeated with 169 and 154, respectively.

The borough also voted by a 221-150 count to increase its indebtedness $48,000 so that an addition to the municipal building may be constructed.

In Doylestown township, a $90,000 debt increase for a new elementary school passed by a vote of 307 to 99.

In Falls Township, incumbent Justice of the Peace Elwood E. Fritz was unseated by Frank Kinald in his renomination bid. Kinald polled 659 to Fritz' 603. John Melvin, another winner, racked up 746.

In Lower Makefield Township's only battle for a post, Supervisor Russell F. Carter won his renomination bid handily, 298-139 over newcomer W. E. Banner. The position calls for a six-year term.

In Upper Makefield Township there were two political battles for GOP posts. John J. Welsh, incumbent supervisor, defeated Anthony Burton, and Mrs. Marjorie R. Marshall topped Henry Jacques in the school director fight. Townships, voters approved a $120,000 debt increase for a new elementary school, and a $30,000 reconversion of funds for school purposes.

William Kay and Sven Nielsen won the Republican nominations for Middletown twp. supervisor. Kay beat incumbent Raymond Secules for a six year term, and Nielsen, now filling the unexpired term of Albert P. Darrah, defeated Raymond Lawrence. For justice of the peace, Norman Straw beat Frederick Holly.

THOUGHTS ON THE
84th PSALM
They Go From Strength To Strength

In a world which is discovering new and terrible means of power, if used for destruction; man himself finds himself in need of inward powers which can control these atomic energies. It is the man whose strength is in God who is the hope of the future. Such strength is spiritual and moral, and he will pass through the valley of weeping and turn it into a place of fountains.

As Georgia Harkness has sung,

"Amid the turmoil of the tempest's din
When systems shake and nations rent in twain
Become a holocaust of fear and sin,
Lord, let us hear Thy still small voice again.
A glorious company of sainted souls
Have stood in every age along with Thee
To wrest from earthquake's havoc and the coals
A new world and a nobler destiny."

The seekers after God are superior to the decay which we see in the moral structurue of our world. They are the salt of the earth, not because they are perfect; but because they permit God to work in and through them as they appear before His Zion. It is to this company of God's co-laborers in the building of His Kingdom that we invite you. Be a part of the remnant which shall be the leaven of a new social order.

Hunt Bros. Circus Here For Day Stand May 27th

Bristol will increase its population materially on Wednesday, May 27th, for that is the day that Hunt Bros. Circus will play here.

It will really be a case of a city within a city, for Hunt Bros. Circus, now in its 61st consecutive year of operation, is a city in itself.

The homes are moveable ones, in the form of the house trailers and living trucks used by the performers and the working personnel.

And this "city," which is in one community today and another tomorrow, moves into town quietly, goes about the busness of setting itself up for the day and on the morrow is many miles away, ready to do the same thing all over again.

The program presented by Hunt Bros. Circus this year is claimed to be the best in its long history. It includes Gayle De Riski, who balances on her head on the whirling trapeze bar; Hazel and Marvin Case in wizardy on the tight wire; the seven Hunt Bros. elephants; Billie Barton, in his daring exhibition upon the Spanish cloud swing; Millie Mae with her Brazilian roly-roly presentation; the Hunt Bros. six palaminos in a liberty horse act presented by Lou Barton, well-known equestrian expert; the Riding Conleys, one of America's outstanding bareback riding acts; Capt. Guy Leslie and his educated sea lions; and capering clowns, headed by Ray Sinclair.

Seventeenth Reprieve Granted Three Slayers

Three Philadelphians condemned to die May 25 for the holdup-slaying of William Kelly at the Feasterville Inn almost five years ago, were granted their 17th reprieve yesterday by Gov. John S. Fine, who set the date back to July 27.

Governor Fine's action was the result of an order by the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Third District for a stay in the case of David Darcy which turns the case back to the U. S. District Court for the Middle District of Pennsylvania for further action.

Darcy, 27, whose home was on Large st. near Oxford, was convicted and sentenced to die, along with Harold Foster, 27, of Teesdale st. near Frankford ave., and Harry Zeitz, 23, of Oakland st., near Sanger.

THOUGHTS ON THE 84th PSALM
They Go From Strength To Strength

In a world which is discovering new and terrible means of power, if used for destruction; man himself finds himself in need of inward powers which can control these atomic energies. It is the man whose strength is in God who is the hope of the future. Such strength is spiritual and moral, and he will pass through the valley of weeping and turn it into a place of fountains.

As Georgia Harkness has sung,

"Amid the turmoil of the tempest's din
When systems shake and nations rent in twain
Become a holocaust of fear and sin,
Lord, let us hear Thy still small voice again.
A glorious company of sainted souls
Have stood in every age along with Thee
To wrest from earthquake's havoc and the coals
A new world and a nobler destiny."

The seekers after God are superior to the decay which we see in the moral structurue of our world. They are the salt of the earth, not because they are perfect; but because they permit God to work in and through them as they appear before His Zion. It is to this company of God's co-laborers in the building of His Kingdom that we invite you. Be a part of the remnant which shall be the leaven of a new social order.

Hunt Bros. Circus Here For Day Stand May 27th

Bristol will increase its population materially on Wednesday, May 27th, for that is the day that Hunt Bros. Circus will play here.

It will really be a case of a city within a city, for Hunt Bros. Circus, now in its 61st consecutive year of operation, is a city in itself.

The homes are moveable ones, in the form of the house trailers and living trucks used by the performers and the working personnel.

And this "city," which is in one community today and another tomorrow, moves into town quietly, goes about the business of setting itself up for the day and on the morrow is many miles away, ready to do the same thing all over again.

The program presented by Hunt Bros. Circus this year is claimed to be the best in its long history. It includes Gayle De Riski, who balances on her head on the whirling trapeze bar; Hazel and Marvin Case in wizardry on the tight wire; the seven Hunt Bros. elephants; Billie Barton, in his daring exhibition upon the Spanish cloud swing; Millie Mae with her Brazilian roly-roly presentation; the Hunt Bros. six palaminos in a liberty horse act presented by Lou Barton, well-known equestrian expert; the Riding Conleys, one of America's outstanding bareback riding acts; Capt. Guy Leslie and his educated sea lions; and capering clowns, headed by Ray Sinclair.

Seventeenth Reprieve Granted Three Slayers

Three Philadelphians condemned to die May 25 for the holdup-slaying of William Kelly at the Feasterville Inn almost five years ago, were granted their 17th reprieve yesterday by Gov. John S. Fine, who set the date back to July 27.

Governor Fine's action was the result of an order by the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Third District for a stay in the case of David Darcy which turns the case back to the U. S. District Court for the Middle District of Pennsylvania for further action.

Darcy, 27, whose home was on Large st. near Oxford, was convicted and sentenced to die, along with Harold Foster, 27, of Teesdale st. near Frankford ave., and Harry Zeltz, 23, of Oakland st., near Sanger.

Pennsbury Wins, 8-1, To Drop Warriors From First Place

Pennsbury High knocked Bristol High from the top perch of the Lower Bucks County League by trimming the Warriors, 8-1, yesterday on Memorial field.

"Big Mike" Baldovski's fast ball was too much for the Bristol batters as he held them to 7 hits. He was in hot water frequently but in the pinches he whizzed his fast ball over to get the Bristol batters to pop.

As a result of the defeat, Bristol dropped into second place with Neshaminy High going into first position.

The pitching of Salvatore Qualteria had much to do with the VFW triumph as he held the Giants to five scattered hits. He was aided by the fielding of John Dougherty and Jim DiTulio.

Glen McCoy did well on the hill for the losers but his bad fourth spoiled his hurling. John Pringle played well in the field for the losers.

malka opportunity to show cause why she should not be deported. The charge is that Mrs. Homalka had withheld knowledge that her husband had previously been deported from the United States. This, she claims, she had no knowledge of the incident having occurred when Homalka was a youth and before she met him. If Mrs. Homalka is deported, the three older children would be sent with her. This hearing has been postponed, however, to an indefinite date in the near future. In the meantime, Mr. Homalka reports once a month to immigration authorities in Phila., his passport having been taken from him, and he being placed under parole.

"The postponing of the hearing for Mrs. Homalka will give more time to secure additional signers to the petitions, and for more organized support," stated the Rev. Mr. Reinert this morning. Mrs. Homalka is said to be ill, thus the postponement.

When printed petition forms ran out last evening, a notary public commenced the tedious task of typing forms, but this slowed up the signatures. A previous petition, not in accepted form, was not recognized, hence the need for the session last evening and the call for all previous signers to attend.

A woman lawyer, Mrs. Lena Orlow, of the firm of Orlow & Orlow, Phila., became interested in the case after being retained, and has agreed to proceed without advance payment. This firm handles many immigration cases.

Members of Cornwells Methodist Church, and of the Lions and Rotary Clubs of Bensalem twp., also other service clubs were included in the group signing petitions last evening, as were many neighbors. This evening the case will be presented to the Lions Club at a meeting at Red Lion Inn; and probably will be mentioned at the Rotary Club meeting next Tuesday.

Adolph, the older boy, was born in a D. P. camp; Freda in another D. P. camp; Helga in a hospital in Ruttenberg, Germany, near which city the family was residing under jurisdiction of the D. P. Court.

The story as given by the Rev. Mr. Reinert (told to him by the Homalka family) is that Frank was born in Austria, and as a boy visited relatives in Canada. Relatives in Detroit invited him to visit them, and doing so minus a passport, he was picked up by immigration authorities and deported. That taste of freedom and his desire to live in America remained with him long after he returned to Austria. While there he met the young woman who became his wife. Later when Roumania overrode that part of Austria the Homalkas were put in D. P. camps, going from one to another for eight or nine years. Offered the chance of freedom in exchange for accepting Communist doctrine, Homalka says he refused, still having his dream of returning to the U. S. The family continued to face privation and near starvation.

A relative in Phila. a few years ago promised Homalka to provide funds to come to the U. S., but advised against mention of the previous deportation. "Why not tell?" was his question, says Homalka. But the reply was "No. Get the visa, say nothing and not get into trouble." He followed the advice against his better judgment, Homalka adds. The $800 loaned him was repaid, as was $400 interest, he claims. In addition Homalka states he supported the mother of the said relative for 18 months, then a misunderstanding occurred.

Immigration officials later came into the picture, and charged Homalka with withholding information that he had been in the U. S. on a previous occasion. Homalka had about two years ago applied for citizenship papers, and Mrs. Homalka made application last year.

It was in 1941 that Germany passed a law to the effect that those living in Germany, who had been born in Austria, and who had been run out of their homeland by the invasion of the Reds would become German citizens. Thus Homalka's passport lists him as a citizen of Germany although he was born in Austria.

The two Homalka girls attend Cornwells Methodist Sunday School. On Mother's day the pastor first informed the congregation of the difficulties of the family. "The church stands ready to sponsor the family under a D. P. quota," stated the Rev. Mr. Reinert today. He added as he referred to a recent case where one enemy alien admitted coming into the country illegally with the express purpose of doing harm to the country (and who was granted privelege to remain here): "If they can do that for an enemy alien, why can't they do as much for a man who loves this country, who wuold not join the communist cause, who is a good worker and good neighbor. His only crime is failing to say he was deported and he did that on advice of good-intentioned but unreliable folk." The clergyman recounted how one neighbor of Homalka told of learning that his roof leaked while he (said neighbor) was ill abed. Homalka put on an entire new roof, and refused to accept any recompense it is stated. "This is one example of many," adds the pastor.

This morning Joseph C. Gioffree, 131 Winder drive, Bristol twp., announced that individuals who have known the Homalka family may swear to such before a notary public (free of charge) any time at his home or at the home of Samuel Oechsle, Newportville road, Bristol twp. Gioffree is representative of the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County.

Pennsbury Wins, 8-1, To Drop Warriors From First Place

Pennsbury High knocked Bristol High from the top perch of the Lower Bucks County League by trimming the Warriors, 8-1, yesterday on Memorial field.

"Big Mike" Baldovski's fast ball was too much for the Bristol batters as he held them to 7 hits. He was in hot water frequently but in the pinches he whizzed shis fast ball over to get the Bristol batters to pop.

As a result of the defeat, Bristol dropped into second place with Neshaminy High going into first position.

Score by Innings:

Pennsbury	2 4 1 0 1 0 0—8

VFW's Four-Run Flare-Up Nets Win Over Giants

The V. F. W. team won its first game of the Little Baseball League last evening with a flare-up of four runs in the fourth inning. The VFW boys defeated the Giants, 4-2, on the Rohm & Haas diamond. It was the second loss for the Giants.

The pitching of Salvatore Qualteria had much to do with the VFW triumph as he held the Giants to five scattered hits. He was aided by the fielding of John Dougherty and Jim DiTulio.

Glen McCoy did well on the hill for the losers but his bad fourth spoiled his hurling. John Pringle played well in the field for the losers.

Score by Innings:

Giants	1 0 0 0 0 1—2
V. F. W.	0 0 0 4 0 x—4

Joe Campbell handed the losers their zeros, allowing three hits. He struck out 10. Sabol was the losing pitcher.

malka opportunity to show cause why she should not be deported. The charge is that Mrs. Homalka had withheld knowledge that her husband had previously been deported from the United States. This, she claims, she had no knowledge of the incident having occurred when Homalka was a youth and before she met him. If Mrs. Homalka is deported, the three older children would be sent with her. This hearing has been postponed, however, to an indefinite date in the near future. In the meantime, Mr. Homalka reports once a month to immigration authorities in Phila., his passport having been taken from him, and he being placed under parole.

"The postponing of the hearing for Mrs. Homalka will give more time to secure additional signers to the petitions, and for more organized support," stated the Rev. Mr. Reinert this morning. Mrs. Homalka is said to be ill, thus the postponement.

When printed petition forms ran out last evening, a notary public commenced the tedious task of typing forms, but this slowed up the signatures. A previous petition, not in accepted form, was not recognized, hence the need for the session last evening and the call for all previous signers to attend.

A woman lawyer, Mrs. Lena Orlow, of the firm of Orlow & Orlow, Phila., became interested in the case after being retained, and has agreed to proceed without advance payment. This firm handles many immigration cases.

Members of Cornwells Methodist Church, and of the Lions and Rotary Clubs of Bensalem twp., also other service clubs were included in the group signing petitions last evening, as were many neighbors. This evening the case will be presented to the Lions Club at a meeting at Red Lion Inn; and probably will be mentioned at the Rotary Club meeting next Tuesday.

Adolph, the older boy, was born in a D. P. camp; Freda in another D. P. camp; Helga in a hospital in Ruttenberg, Germany, near which city the family was residing under jurisdiction of the D. P. Court.

The story as given by the Rev. Mr. Reinert (told to him by the Homalka family) is that Frank was born in Austria, and as a boy visited relatives in Canada. Relatives in Detroit invited him to visit them, and doing so minus a passport, he was picked up by immigration authorities and deported. That taste of freedom and his desire to live in America remained with him long after he returned to Austria. While there he met the young woman who became his wife. Later when Roumania overrode that part of Austria the Homalkas were put in D. P. camps, going from one to another for eight or nine years. Offered the chance of freedom in exchange for accepting Communist doctrine, Homalka says he refused, still having his dream of returning to the U. S. The family continued to face privation and near starvation.

A relative in Phila. a few years ago promised Homalka to provide funds to come to the U. S., but advised against mention of the previous deportation. "Why not tell?" was his question, says Homalka. But the reply was "No. Get the visa, say nothing and not get into trouble." He followed the advice against his better judgment, Homalka adds. The $800 loaned him was repaid, as was $400 interest, he claims. In addition Homalka states he supported the mother of the said relative for 18 months, then a misunderstanding occurred.

Immigration officials later came into the picture, and charged Homalka with withholding information that he had been in the U. S. on a previous occasion. Homalka had about two years ago applied for citizenship papers, and Mrs. Homalka made application last year.

It was in 1941 that Germany passed a law to the effect that those living in Germany, who had been born in Austria, and who had been run out of their homeland by the invasion of the Reds would become German citizens. Thus Homalka's passport lists him as a citizen of Germany although he was born in Austria.

The two Homalka girls attend Cornwells Methodist Sunday School. On Mother's day the pastor first informed the congregation of the difficulties of the family. "The church stands ready to sponsor the family under a D. P. quota," stated the Rev. Mr. Reinert today. He added as he referred to a recent case where one enemy alien admitted coming into the country illegally with the express purpose of doing harm to the country (and who was granted privelege to remain here): "If they can do that for an enemy alien, why can't they do as much for a man who loves this country, who wuold not join the communist cause, who is a good worker and good neighbor. His only crime is failing to say he was deported and he did that on advice of good-intentioned but unreliable folk." The clergyman recounted how one neighbor of Homalka told of learning that his roof leaked while he (said neighbor) was ill abed. Homalka put on an entire new roof, and refused to accept any recompense it is stated. "This is one example of many," adds the pastor.

This morning Joseph C. Gioffree, 131 Winder drive, Bristol twp., announced that individuals who have known the Homalka family may swear to such before a notary public (free of charge) any time at his home or at the home of Samuel Oechsle, Newportville road, Bristol twp. Gioffree is representative of the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County.

GARDEN NOTES

By Walter W. Pitzonka, Jr.

We should be thinking about planting hardy chrysanthemums. The botanical name for this group is "Chrysanthemum maxima". Most gardeners, however, call these plants "mums" or "fall chrysanthemums". At this time of the year, chrysanthemums are putting forth all their vegetative growth. Certainly planting these plants while they are small will help them become established before the true long hot spells come rolling through.

Several new varieties of "mums" have been developed in the last few years. These should be raised by gardeners because they are different in growth habits and color. These, when combined with the old favorites of the garden, will make your garden complete. New varieties are carried by nurseries in this area and are available in a container, so in planting the roots are not injured.

Three general types of mums are cushion, giant, and regular. Only two of these are common to our gardens. Only the giant type does not appear except in greenhouses. The giant "mums" are grown for such activities as football games and parades and are not hardy in our location of Pennsylvania.

Cushion refers to the growth habit of the plant. These plants are short and dome like. The flowers are borne on short stems and when in bloom make an appearance like a cushion of flowers.

Regular "mums" are the ones we gardeners grow the most. The vast colors found in this group range from white through yellow to a dark red. Blue shades are the only color not found in chrysanthemums.

Chrysanthemums are one of a group of plants which is called "short day" plants. This means that flowers will not form until short days of the fall occur. This is interesting because by covering the growing plants during the long days of summer from 4:00 p. m. until 7:00 the next morning for a week to ten days with a dark cloth will force flowering. Flowering usually occurs three to four weeks after covering has taken place. This practice of inducing flowers is the way florists obtain flowers from "mums" throughout the year. Try this technique and be the first on the block to have the beautiful "mums" bloom.

Reminder of the week is to visit your nurseryman and see his beautiful collection of rhododendrons now in full bloom. Only hybrid rhododendrons give the dark reds, such as is found in the variety "Dr. Begely". The hybrid varieties produce larger and more beautiful clusters than the wild type which is rhododendron maximum. See them this week for a beautiful treat especially if you are interested in one for outside your home.

Happy gardening 'til we talk shop again next week.

Take Advantage of New Things; Be the First To Benefit

By DR. JAMES N. ROEBUCK

Chiropractic is not a cure-all. No method of healing will ever do that, but Chiropractic does supersede the old methods of caring for the sick in many instances. Just so did the steamship supersede the old sailing vessel, the electric light displace the kerosene lamp, the airplane take the place of land - going vehicles, and now the fluid drive replaces the conventional clutch.

Each new thing has to prove its value and advantages over the old. Those who are first to try and accept the advantages are the first to benefit.

This is the 5th of a series of Chiropractic educational advertisements appearing in this paper each Thursday through the courtesy of Dr. James N. Roebuck, Chiropractor, 1806 Farragut Avenue, Bristol, Pa.

Take Advantage of New Things; Be the First To Benefit

By DR. JAMES N. ROEBUCK

Chiropractic is not a cure-all. No method of healing will ever do that, but Chiropractic does supersede the old methods of caring for the sick in many instances. Just so did the steamship supersede the old sailing vessel, the electric light displace the kerosene lamp, the airplane take the place of land - going vehicles, and now the fluid drive replaces the conventional clutch.

Each new thing has to prove its value and advantages over the old. Those who are first to try and accept the advantages are the first to benefit.

This is the 5th of a series of Chiropractic educational advertisements appearing in this paper each Thursday through the courtesy of Dr. James N. Roebuck, Chiropractor, 1806 Farragut Avenue, Bristol, Pa.
